

E'ile Hawthorne

Race: Elf (half wood, half desert)

Gender: Female

Homeland: Morningstar Cove, E'atara

Title: Yelde Ana Rana Nen

FALO Standing: Moonstone Holder

The only child of Sandstorm and Isobelle, E'ile was raised in ignorance of her family legacy. It was only after her mother's death that E'ile learned of her destiny as the guardian of the Sacred Srying Pool. This pool enables the Yelde Ana Rana Nen, under the right conditions, to see images that Natura wishes her to see.

After settling at Morningstar Cove on E'Atara, the Sacred Srying Pool was originally consecrated by Niamh, one of E'ile's ancestors, generations ago. Niamh had two daughters, Melusine and Meleah. E'ile is a descendant of Melusine. Meleah murdered Niamh in an attempt to subvert the Sacred Srying Pool for her own dark goddess. Melusine was able to stop that from happening, partially by separating, dispersing, and hiding the Sacred Srying Tools throughout the land.

The Sacred Srying Tools are items sacred to E'ile's family and the goddess. The Sacred Srying Stones were taken from the shores of Lake Hawthorne when E'ile's ancestors fled Alayta Amrun. They brought the Sacred Srying Sword and the Sacred Srying Dagger with them, as well. These items were once the property of Melusine and Meleah. The Sacred Srying Herb was also gathered from near the shores of Lake Hawthorne. The final tool is the Sacred Srying Journal that has been passed down from one Yelde Ana Rana Nen to the next, so she might record her experiences.

Through research, hard work, the help of her friends and a lot of luck, E'ile found these tools and has reconsecrated the Sacred Srying Pool. She resides in Morningstar Cove where she follows the tradition of her ancestors and looks into the water at the full moon to see what she is shown. Sometimes it is the future, sometimes it is the past, and sometimes it is something that will never be.

The threat Meleah poses still exists. E'ile knows she is in constant danger. She is grateful for the support of her father, her aunt, and her clan as she rises to the challenges forced upon her. Throughout all this, she has had Khallil, her beloved, helping her in any way possible. The two hope to wed once E'ile is a little more comfortable with her responsibilities.